

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An address book accessed from a local panel is made accessible to Web users (remote panels) connected to a network, by Web server functions. Also, whether to permit or deny requests for changing the data of the address book from the local panel, and requests for changing the data of the address book from the remote panels, is determined.